The Barracks . . . To Remain In Use

The Andover State Police Barracks on the Andover Bypass, will remain in operation after the new plan for state police protection begins sometime next year. The new system will do away only with the dormitory and eating facilities at the barracks.

Under the new plan, troopers will no longer be living at the barracks, but will take the state police cruiser home with them at the completion of an eight-hour tour of duty.

The troopers will be on call and when their weekly time-off periods are scheduled the cruiser will be left at the barracks.

The new plan, approved by the legislature this year, is intended to beef up enforcement by the state police, making more troopers available and covering wider areas.

The state police barracks on the bypass which has stood majestically and beautifully landscaped for over 50 years, will continue to operate as a complete enforcement agency, according to state police officials.

A commanding officer will be at the barracks on a 'round-the-clock basis. All cruisers and troopers will be in constant communication.

The troopers will report to the barracks at the beginning and end of their tour of duty, as well as in between, examining and making out reports.

The only difference between its present function and the new plan will be the elimination of the dining facilities and the formitory.

Complete details of the change-over have not as yet been finalized. Officials are now working on details for the most effective way to put the new plan into effect.

The change is tentatively scheduled for May 1, 1971.

The Andover barracks patrols a wide area in this part of the state. Major routes patrolled include Routes 495, 93, 28, 129, 62, 125 and 114.

The new plan, officials feel, will provide for greater enforcement and protection

Educational Complex Proposed

K-5 elementary schools, Grades 6-12 in an educational park at the 83-acre Shawsheen Road site where the high school and the West Junior High are already located.

This is how the school administration would like to organize Andover's student body, five years from now, including their low estimate of 230 new pupils a year.

The educational park for over 4000 pupils would center on a large core facility which would serve not only the seven grades to be housed at the centrally located Shawsheen Road site, but the community at large.

The administration gave the school committee three alternative plans Tuesday for coping with school housing in a system which gained 303 pupils this year and is now filled to capacity.

Superintendent Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert said the administrators consensus was that the secondary educational park plan for grades 6-12 would equalize educational opportunity for all secondary students, bring 6th grade students to wider resources, and avoid expensive duplication of important educational resources. He said that a K-4 elementary plan is desirable in many ways, but would be economically infeasible. High School Principal Philip Wormwood said the 6-12 plan offered exciting educational opportunities, and the large number of pupils involved would make economically feasible desirable core facilities, (library, swimming pool, art workshops) which would be available to the community at large.

In this plan, which is the administration's choice over two alternative plans they presented Tuesday night, Shawsheen School and East Junior High would be phased out as regular classroom buildings, but not go out of use, when new construction at the educational park is completed, some four or five years from now.

East Junior High could eventually house the school administration and possibly other town offices, and be a core facility for K-5 students. The school department has a choice of purposes Shawsheen could serve, come the millennium.

Tuesday's crowded school committee meeting thus zeroed in on the nitty-gritty of the 1970-1980 educational master plan which the administration presented. The committee leaned heavily toward the 6-12 educational park plan, but wanted more graphic descriptions, more details and rough cost estimates before making the long awaited decision on the shape of school buildings to come. The committee did buy, however, the carefully documented school population projection, which set 2300 as a conservative, or low, estimate of the school population increase by 1980. This estimates an average annual increase of 230 pupils, far lower than the 303 increase Andover schools picked up this

Returns Slow Following Light Voter Turnout

Less than one-third of Andover's voters turned out for the state primary election on Tuesday, as only 3,560 of the town's 11,247 registered voters reported to the polls.

Despite the computerized voting in Andover, the town was the last to report results in the Greater Lawrence area, the final totals being reported about 1:15 a.m.

Reason for the delay was reported as poll workers having to count write-in votes and the lengthy Democratic ballot having to be put through the computer in two sections.

Town Clerk Elden R. Salter reported there were some mechanical problems during the processing, but none of a serious nature.

The results were fed to the computer by party, the Republican ballot being processed first and the Democrats second, rather than precinct by precinct as has been done previously.

In the only battle on the Republican ticket, convention-

Policy On Ambulance To Remain Unchanged

The town ambulance service policy will remain the same, emergency transportation to Greater Lawrence hospitals, following a 3-2 vote of the selectmen Monday night.

At the same time, and by a similar vote, the board voted to seek withdrawal of an article in the October town Meeting seeking $15,000 for a second ambulance for the town.

The motions came following lengthy discussion and a report by Town Manager J. Maynard Austin, who asked that a committee be appointed to study the ambulance service problem and make subsequent recommendations in time for consideration at the annual town meeting in March.

Selectman Roger W. Collins made the motions which were seconded by George E. Heseltine. Chairman Robert A. Watters cast the deciding vote, as Selectman Sidney P. White and William Stewart voted in opposition.

Austin explained that the policy, as it now stands, had been adopted by the board some time ago. It provides for transportation to Greater Lawrence hospitals to patients considered to be in emergency status, the emergency to be determined by a physician, police officer or firefighter.

In his report, the manager said there were several things to consider in any change of policy.

He suggested that a committee

To Review Plans For Addition

Town officials will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the William A. Doherty school to discuss and examine a preview of plans for the addition to the school.

The matter will face the voters at the Oct. 5 town meeting, when funds in the amount of $80,000 will be requested to proceed with final plans for the addition to the school.

Scheduled to meet Monday night are members of the building committee, town manager, representatives of the selectmen, school committee, school site study committee and the entire finance committee.

Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert, superintendent of schools, is scheduled to meet with William Black of the State School Building Assistance

Record Enrollment At Abbot

Abbot Academy opened its 141st year with a record enrollment of 290 students including 41 Andover and 9 North Andover girls.

Changes taking effect with the opening of the 1970-71 school year include the adopting of a trimester schedule to synchronize with that of Phillips Academy, a new dormitory, new courses in Humanities and Drug Education, and newly refurbished student and faculty lounges in Draper Hall.

The new dormitory is located at 50 Phillips Street and will be named Chapin House after its former owner - Mrs. Jeanette T. Chapin of Brookline, formerly of Andover. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Witte will be resident advisors in the new dormitory.

Principal Donald A. Gordon announced the appointment of Miss Carolyn Goodwin, former chairman of the mathematics department and long time Abbot teacher, as director of studies. Mrs. Malcolm Johnston, teacher of English and student counselor, has been named as dean of students succeeding Mrs. Florence Griffith who will become registrar. Peter T. Stapleton has been appointed assistant to the principal and also continues as a teacher of English.

According to Mr. Gordon renovations and additions to plant include: classroom refurbishing, dormitory additions, a new business office at Morton and School Streets, new platform tennis courts, a new hockey field on Abbott Street, all made possible by gifts currently totaling $525,000, from Alumnae, Parents, and friends to the New Abbot Fund. Mr. Gordon further states that Abbot is challenged by an ever increasing demand for admission and retaining its traditional "small school" community spirit. The school has become in recent years considerably more residential with over half of the faculty and administration living on campus or in school owned homes adjacent to the school.

Abbot students will continue their extra curricula involvement in community service with such programs as "Open Horizon" a project where disadvantaged youth are regularly entertained and tutored on the Abbot campus; "Turtles" a community service organization where students go off campus to aid other volunteer agencies such as the Lawrence YMCA; volunteer to the Lawrence General Hospital and the tutoring of certain Lawrence elementary school students.

Local members of Abbot's Board of Trustees include Philip K. Allen, president, James K. Dow, Jr., treasurer, and Mrs. John Kemper, wife of Phillips Academy headmaster, John Kemper.

Andover and North Andover students enrolled for the current year at Abbot are:

Senior Scouts To Weekend On Cape Cod

Eighty Senior Girl Scouts of the Merrimack River Council will be heading for the Cape this weekend for their third annual Senior Fall-In which promises to be as exciting and different as its predecessors. The 9th through 12th graders will board buses at Merrimack College Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock and return Sunday evening.

This year's Fall-In, to be held at Camp Favorite, Brewster, has been totally girl-planned, with the advice of an adult program chairman. Using last year's evaluations and many suggestions on menus and activities, this is expected to be the best Fall-In ever held. This year the caravan will take the Senior Scouts to Cape Cod and the historical sites and sounds of our own state of Massachusetts, while giving the girls an opportunity to renew old friendships and make new ones. Plans include a trip to historic Provincetown, as well as many other interesting activities.

Merrimack River Council has received registrations from Senior Scouts from Andover, North Andover, Lawrence, East Pepperell, Wilmington, Chelmsford, Lowell, Littleton, Fort Devens, West Groton, Tyngsboro, Tewksbury, Billerica, Nashua, Windham and Hudson.

Each Senior Scout becomes involved in at least one Service Aide project a year. The training for these programs is given or arranged by the Council, while others are arranged by advisors to be done with specialists. The training requires a minimum of six hours followed by 50 hours of service. If on-the-job training is given, a total of 56 hours is expected. Courses have been set up so far this year for the following Service Aide Programs: Program Aide Training and Public Relations Aide Training. Other Aide programs include Merchandising Aide, Handicapped Aide, Hospital Aide, Ranger Aide, Teacher Aide and Laboratory Aide. The Council will arrange training for other Aide programs in the near future. Training is given only if there is a need for this service in the community. Senior Scouts are advised to contact their Troop Advisor if further Aide programs are requested.

Band Parents Meet Monday

The Andover Band Parents Association will hold their first meeting of the year Monday night, Sept. 21 at 8 p.m. at the senior high school.

All parents of band members, including majorettes and color bearers, are invited to attend.

Edward P. Grigoli, music director for the Andover School system, will be in attendance and introduce Alfie Graceffa, the new band director.

Plans for the annual candy sale to be held Sept. 24 and 25 will be finalized.

Observe 50th Anniversary

The North Andover Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Horatio Rogers, 580 Osgood St., North Andover, on Tuesday, Sept. 15, to observe its 50th anniversary.

A history of the Club's fifty years was read by Mrs. Edward M. Harris, and the program included a Fashion Show with members modelling dresses from the 1920s to 1970, with Mrs. William A. Finneran doing the commentary.

Guests included many of the Past Presidents of the Club, and the following Officers of The Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts Inc.: Mrs. Irving W. Mack immediate past president, Mrs. C. Norman Collard president, Mrs. Ralph H. Hill first vice president and Mrs. Leonard Francis north-east district director.

Flower arrangements were made by Mrs. Douglas A. Chandler, Mrs. Tellef Tellefsen, and Mrs. Edmund F. Leland, Jr. Corsages were made by Mrs. Douglas A. Chandler and Mrs. Robert Friis. The bride's bouquet was arranged by Mrs. John B. Osgood.

Tea was served by the committee in charge of the affair: Mrs. Arthur E. Sunderland, chairman; Mrs. Ernest L. Wilkinson, Mrs.

Arnold H. Salisbury and Mrs. Edward M. Harris.

Mrs. Charles E. Hayes of Andover is president of the club and Mrs. Edward M. Harris, also of Andover, is the vice president.

The North Andover Garden Club was founded August 5, 1920 by Mrs. Lewis S. Bigelow, a summer resident. She was a member of The Garden Club of America and being very interested in North Andover, Mrs. Bigelow could foresee how the influence of a Garden Club in the town could do much to enhance its beauty. She, therefore, called a few friends together for a meeting, at which, Mrs. Bigelow was elected president and Miss Ruth Ely secretary.

The purpose of the club was to encourage the cultivation of and interest in gardens and an interest in civic work.

Some of the members, in the early years, who contributed much to the club and to the town, were Mrs. John G. Coolidge, Mrs. Nathaniel Stevens, Mrs. William Sutton and Miss Kate Stevens.

Miss Stevens in 1949 wrote a "History of the North Andover Garden Club" which was published at that time.

Civic work accomplished by the club through the years included beautifying the Common, planting of trees and shrubs in the center, caring for the "Old Burial Ground" on Academy Road, delivering and arranging flowers at hospitals, with much attention given to the Lovell General Hospital at Camp Devens.

Flower Shows and Harvest Shows were held frequently and numerous prizes and awards were won for entries in The Spring Flower Show, the Topsfield Fair and neighboring Flower Shows.

The recent work of the club has been concentrated on civic beautification. The largest project undertaken was landscaping the high school courtyard and working with the students to transform a barren field of weeds to a beautiful garden and lawn. This was a most rewarding effort.

This spring an award was presented to the club by The Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts Inc., for its distinguished work in landscaping the new police station and for planting the Unity Plot garden in the old center.

Of Lots In Ballardvale

The Four Seasons Garden Club plans to conduct a guided walk of two pieces of land along the Shawsheen River, lots 10 and 10A on the town map, on the Saturday morning before Town Meeting voters decide whether the town shall turn these lots over to the Conservation Commission.

Explorer Scout Troop 75 will assist the garden clubbers in leading citizens on the walk Saturday, Sept. 26, between 10 and 12 a.m., to give voters a look at the land they must vote on.

Mrs. Richard Cotton, chairman of Horticulture and Conservation for the Four Seasons Garden Club, emphasizes that the purpose of the tour of the shorefront properties will not be to influence voters either way, but rather to encourage citizens to inform themselves firsthand about the properties before voting on the issue on Oct. 5.

To reach the lots, which are off Burrill Road, follow signs, which will begin at the bridge in Ballardvale. In case of rain, the Walk will take place Sunday, between 2 and 4 p.m. instead.

REGISTERING. Mrs. Yvonne Swarthout, secretary to the dean at Phillips Academy assists boys registering for the beginning of another semester at the academy. The boys, all from out of town, moved in last Saturday and began classes this week.

Academic Year Opens At Phillips

Phillips Academy began its 193rd year on Monday, with innovations in scheduling and housing for 878 students.

The academic year will be divided into three terms, or trimesters, designed to give students a chance to substitute independent studies or off campus projects for regular courses during a term.

In carrying out the new program, the academy will make provisions for students to work out apprenticeships in schools, studios, laboratories or research organizations within reach of Andover.

One group of students is expected to undertake a residential work-study program in Boston, while another will be assigned to a similar project in Mexico under the Man in Society course. Voluntary work in hospitals, schools and youth and recreation centers in the Greater Lawrence-Lowell areas will be continued.

Housing will be under a system of six separate clusters of dormitories, each with about 120 students. These groups will have considerable autonomy, with students and house masters sharing administrative responsibilities jointly.

For the first time also, the dress code requiring jackets and neckties in class will be relaxed to permit casual wear. But Headmaster John M. Kemper will remain the final arbiter in interpreting the limits of informality.

PRESENTS GRANT - Harold C. Crowley, 10 Karlton Circle, district manager of the Gulf Oil Corporation presents Merrimack College President, Rev. John R. Aherne, O.S.A. with a $2,000 capital grant to help finance improvements in the Student Union Building. The Gulf grant brought the Corporate Support Program of Merrimack College to the $31,000 mark in 1970.

College Receives Grant

The Merrimack College Corporate Support Program approached the $31,000 mark with the Gulf Oil Corporation becoming the 58th participant in the 1970 campaign.

The Gulf Oil Foundation will distribute more than $3 million this year to students and institutions of higher education for a variety of purposes. The capital grant phase of the program of which Merrimack College is a recipient in an effort to assist institutions in meeting anticipated growth requirements, replacing obsolete buildings, and expanding educational services. could look into such items as manpower, charge for ambulance service, backup provisions for when the ambulance is not available and the experience of other communities with ambulance service.

As for trips to Boston by the town ambulance, Austin said that possibly a doctor or nurse should be mandatory to accompany the patient.

Charging for ambulance service would certainly permit some control over its use, Austin felt and a matter which should be evaluated.

Fire Chief Henry L. Hilton explained that the department now charges out-of-town residents for ambulance service. He also noted that more than half of the calls to which the ambulance responds involve out-of-town people, mostly in accidents.

In either the police or fire department, should the town acquire a second ambulance, it would put four men out of fire or police service, if both vehicles were answering calls.

To properly man a second ambulance, it was pointed out, an additional seven men would be needed at an estimated cost of $80,000.

Private ambulance service is available from Haverhill, Lowell and Salem, N.H. for non-emergency cases, and the telephone numbers are given by the fire department when called.

The manager said he felt that for now, the present policy should be continued. The article for a second ambulance as proposed for the October town meeting has been abandoned, while a committee looks into the overall ambulance program.

Austin suggested that the committee discuss the matter with physicians, hospital administrators, fire fighters, police, private ambulance operators and the general public.

Selectman Sidney P. White strongly objected to any delay in obtaining a second ambulance. He felt the service was necessary in view of the growth of the town.

He also said that possibly the town was in need of a separate department to handle just the ambulance, and felt it "terribly important to let the people decide if they want a second ambulance or not," urging that the matter be allowed to go before the town meeting in October.

White said that if a charge were instituted for the service, which would be covered by insurance, possibly the ambulance could be almost self-sustaining.

He said that a delay would only put the matter off for many months, since purchase of a second vehicle would take two to three months and staffing would also take considerable time.

Despite his protests, however, which were joined by those of Stewart, the three members of the board voted to support Austin's suggestions.

Collins in making the motion said that he had felt strongly about a second ambulance, but after Austin's report and the suggestion of an overall study, he would put the matter off until the March town meeting.

commission this week to explain the need for the new facilities.

The addition has faced a long road to reality.

The Finance Committee granted only preliminary planning funds last March at the annual town meeting.

These plans having been approved by the school committee, the town now must provide funds to produce working drawings for the addition.

This means that actual construction funds will not be provided until the March, 1971 annual town meeting at the earliest. The timetable makes for a difficult schedule for the building committee to provide the necessary classroom space by September of 1971.

Committee members feel that if the appeal for funds, expected to be in the vicinity of $1,900,000 can be presented to the Marchtown meeting, then the timetable may be met.

In regard to the addition, a waiver has been approved by state public safety officials, allowing them to proceed with construction without providing an elevator in the older section of the school. State laws now provide that any building over one story must have an elevator.

Since the addition will be of one story, but the older section containing two stories in some areas, the waiver was necessary.

The meeting Monday is expected to give all local officials a review of the plans and set the stage for passage of contracting for funds for the working drawings.

Even before the first spade of earth is turned for the additional classrooms, the school is overcrowded, with some students now pursuing courses in the corridors of the school.

Steps are expected to be taken to relieve this problem.

College Denied License

Further action by Bryant McIntosh college, Lawrence, was awaited Wednesday, following denial of a request Monday night by the selectmen for an inn-holders license for the former Parker House Manor in Shawsheen.

The college has leased the building and was planning to conduct its hotel-motel management course there for some 100 students, who would also be occupying it as a dormitory.

Several Shawsheen residents, abutments of the area have been opposed to the proposal since it was introduced last spring.

Monday night, Selectman Roger W. Collins moved that the license be denied and by a 4-0 vote it carried. Chairman Robert A. Waters declined from voting stating he did so in order to protect a possible conflict of interest. He is on the board of investment of a bank with which the college deals.

Collins in making his motion said he felt that granting of the license, or even a lodging house license, for which the college had not applied, "would be harmful to the area."

Officials of the school, as of Wednesday had made no decision on further action in the matter. An appeal of the selectmen's decision is anticipated.

The college reports it has spent in the vicinity of $70,000 preparing the building for classroom dormitory use, which it now cannot utilize.

Indebtedness Increases

A 25 million dollar increase in the Commonwealth's bonded indebtedness was noted today by State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane in his latest monthly financial report.

As of September 1, the state's bonded indebtedness, Treasurer Crane reported, was $1,073,423,000 as compared with the September 1, 1969 total of $1,048,345,000.

Treasurer Crane reported a cash balance of $25,385,302 for the month of August, the second month of the new fiscal year. This was a $23.6 million decrease over July's cash balance of $48,914,253.

Slightly over half (5.5 million) of the workers who voluntarily accepted part-time jobs in 1969 were adult women. Adult men accounted for about 2 million of those who usually worked part time and teenagers were credited with holding an additional 2.8 million part time jobs.

The Andover school administrators' educational master plan for the decade of the seventies is ready for public sharing, public advice.

The school administrators' "summerthing" was to work out the ten-year philosophic base for Andover's educational program, and specific five-year goals to be achieved by 1975.

The schoolmen are thinking in terms of three levels of learning to further what they see as three natural stages of development: the inquiry stage of development from ages 3 - 9, exploration of the environment for ages 10 - 14, and the opportunity for older students to apply the results of their inquiry and exploration. The purposes of the three levels would be:

(1) Inquiry schools for students up to 9 years, to develop children's natural curiosity, develop the communicative and mathematical skills for self-education, and develop a positive self-image and social consciousness.

(2) Exploratory Schools for children from 10 - 14, to continue development of self-education skills, to encourage pursuit of individual interests, and active participation in the democratic process.

(3) Application Schools, where student 15 and over will construct and carry out projects inside and outside the school, involving them in using both the school and community resources. Applying the results of their inquiry and exploration, should assist them to develop their options for the career and life styles they will choose. Further development of a student's awareness of himself and his specific abilities is a very important element at the application stage of the learning process.

Superintendent Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert told the TOWNSMAN that for the present, at least, the schools will continue to physically operate on a K-6 elementary, 7 - 9, 10 - 12 secondary setup. However, the administrators will work toward their educational ideal by feeding sixth graders into facilities most suitable for exploratory schooling, and older junior high students into opportunities for application-style learning.

In other words, the idea is to work with the buildings we have, to use every inch of them, meanwhile planning the needed new school construction so that both the town's educational philosophy and the town's school children will fit into the combination of new and old buildings in the best possible age-level organization at the least possible additional cost to the taxpayer.

Dr. Seifert cited five year goals the administrators have set for the staff to achieve by 1975, in the areas of the children's basic learning skills, their social development, and their pursuit of personal interests.

A word about these areas: The basic learning skills, on which later learning depends, are the communicative skills and mathematics. Communicative skills means not only reading and writing, but listening and speaking well too.

Social development has to do with a child's developing a "positive self-image" and social consciousness. As for "pursuit of personal interests," the educational master plan is a joint administrative effort, but Superintendent Seifert's trademark can be seen in the insistence that school be "a place where a child pursues his personal motivations. Such an element in a school program is far more significant than we might assume."

The first two goals for 1975 are that nearly all Andover school children should be meeting the new standards for communicative skills and mathematics, by the sixth grade.

The approach will be developmental, rather than remedial; that is, check the student early and often against the Andover age-level standard, then work with problems very early in the student's career, rather than later, when the academic and psychological hardship to the student, and the cost of the correction to the community, would be much greater.

3. The third goal asks that the schools not take a child's successes for granted, criticizing only his weaknesses, but that by 1975, throughout the system, a child will receive "positive feedback" on his skills, abilities and personality dimensions, to improve his "self-concept image" and to better understand himself. Both students and staff are viewed as assets in achieving this goal.

4. To have 100% of our students working on projects during the school day . . . Such projects should be directly related to the students interests and abilities.

5. To have 100% of our students informed regarding our physical fitness model and to be working towards or maintaining that model. This, of course, is solely dependent upon the individual and his limitations.

6. 100% of our juniors shall

Tonight could well be an important one for Andover.

A public meeting on the future of recreation programs for Andover is to be discussed at Andover High school at 7:30 p.m.

A consultant in the field has been retained by the town to draw up a master plan for the town's Recreation Park — the sprawling acreage which is now occupied by a small building, some developed playfields at Pomp's pond.

There is a considerable amount of land which recreation minded people would like to see developed better.

There is also the problem of what to do with the Andover Playstead area, which is to be developed along with the addition to the William A. Doherty school.

This too, is to be considered within the realm of the work the consultant may be expected to perform for the town.

One must assume that the consultant's fees are minimal in comparison to what the total cost of a master plan for recreation for Andover should be.

But the consultant wants to know what Andover wants.

What its desires and cost of development may be, could prove to be two different things.

But, in tonight's meeting, the general public will have an opportunity to express its feelings, and later, decide if it is economically possible.

Public expression has always proven to be valuable.

Through such public exposure, may come information as to what recreational facilities we already have available. It could be determined how much more is needed. What development of the Recreation Park should be undertaken?

Possibly what use of conservation land, for recreational purposes?

These questions are important enough to Andover's future to encourage a good attendance.

We are currently paying upwards of $45,000 in taxes for a recreation program.

Do we want it expanded? Implemented? Improved?

Of these questions, only the public can answer.

A good response tonight will plot a course for the town in its future planning.

Polling Places

Tuesday's primary election, while being sparsely participated in by the voters of the community, showed something else beside lack of participation.

It displayed a need for election officials to take a good look at the polling places available to the voters.

We understand they are already doing so, since adjustments are anticipated as the town continues to grow and polling places become outdated.

One such location, is the precinct four location, the Grange Hall on Shawsheen road.

The location appears to be inconvenient for one of the town's largest precincts.

The wooden building seems to be outdated for today's voter needs, particularly in a precinct which accommodates probably the second largest registration in town, serving primarily the rapidly expanding West Andover area.

With the opening of the West school, it would seem that facilities there would adapt quite readily to the few days in the course of the year that would be required for election processes.

Adequate parking is provided.

The new building certainly could accommodate the large number of voters registered.

It would be comfortable for those exercising their franchise.

In a day when the people of Andover have been urged to use the municipal buildings for which they paid millions of dollars, here, is classic use for such a structure.

For those who might argue that such all-day activity might be disruptive to the school program, could we suggest just the opposite.

To the youngsters in the school, such activity could most certainly become a part of the learning process, as they watch their parents and adults of the community participate in the democratic process of selecting their administrators.

The William A. Doherty school became one of the first public school buildings in town to be used this week for the primary. It appeared to work out well and without disruption to the school day.

Certainly, as the town grows and facilities are needed, examination of the town's public building for such things as elections, should be considered.

Pollution

The town may very shortly be called upon to provide funds to curb pollution problems in the Shawsheen River.

It will be called upon to do so, since the town has proven to be a contributor.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin reported to the selectmen this week, that the town was contributing to the pollution problems in the Shawsheen through some cracked sewer pipes, through which seepage reaches the stream, the Ballardvale Treatment plant which disposes fluid in the waterway, along with some other problems.

The manager noted in his comments that the Shawsheen, is an "aging stream," commenting on the growth of weeds.

The Shawsheen certainly is aging and pollution of it, contributes not just to the Andover area, but to many communities, since it terminates and enters the highly-polluted Merrimack.

If Andover has been responsible for some of the problems, then they must be cured by its residents.

Industrial problems are being resolved through orders of state authorities.

The town can not shirk from its duty, and no doubt, town meeting in March will be faced with appropriations to cure existing problems.

The problem was created through neglect, no doubt, and the assumption that the river was there and subject to use.

We have learned differently in later years, and now must provide remedies for the mistakes of past and present generations, in order to preserve natural resources for the generation which awaits.

James Edward Wolfe will be installed as curate at Christ Episcopal church Sunday by Rev. J. Edison Pike, rector.

Hurricane Donna blows through town, drenching the community with torrential rains and knocking down limbs and power lines.

Federal approval given to pay the town's Urban Renewal director $10,000 annually.

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN
Private ambulance service in Andover has not been successful because the same service supplied by the town has been far superior. It follows that if Andover is to double that kind of service, the amount shall soon become inadequate for the demand also.

It is correct that the more we get for less cost the more we demand. Consequently, the prudent solution for this purported lack of ambulance service supplied by the town is to reduce the quality of the service thus leaving room for private concerns to compete.

Not only would $15,000 be required for the proposed new vehicle, but two more well paid men would have to be available.

At most, Town Meeting should consider a backup service ambulance. Pontiac and other fine car makers can supply such an adequate vehicle at something less than $10,000. Maintenance would also be much less than on the proposed $15,000 plan.

Off The Top Of The Desk

Signs of Autumn descending upon us, leaves us no choice but to think, or look forward, to a long hard winter.

Many of the leaves along major highways have already begun to turn, taking on brilliant Autumnal hues. It is a beautiful time of year, even though it's nature's last blaze of glory before settling into the gray days of winter which lie ahead.

In northern climes, the past weekend proved to be a tourist's delight as many areas sparkled with the fall colors from the trees.

Speaking of leaves, once their descent to the ground has been accomplished, they must be disposed of in other ways than burning. The fall fragrance of burning leaves is now prohibited under the open burning law which went into effect Tuesday midnight.

Take heart girls! Your husband, father, brother will be disappearing weekends beginning this week. He won't be going far, just to the nearest TV set.

Seems a full schedule of football games begins on the weekend with college and pro teams set for Saturday and Sundays definitely and some Fridays and Mondays thrown in for good measure.

Can't actually recall the exact figure, but in one of the Sunday publications, a report indicated something like 89 games are scheduled for the tube between now and sometime in late January.

Okay women, anyone for knitting?

In the mails this week was an attractive and enlightening brochure forwarded by the American Battle Monuments Commission.

The brochure, in pictures and stories, tells of the American Memorial and overseas cemeteries, where those who have sacrificed for freedom are buried and honored.

Quite often, the accompanying letter points out, the commission receives requests for decoration of graves on holidays or birthdays of the deceased.

Information relative to such procedures, may be obtained by writing the commission in Washington, D.C., 20315.

Want some additional signs of winter?

Suppose not, but here they are anyway.

Viewed in sporting goods and hardware stores lately is the arrival and display of such items as skates, skis, toboggans and other winter sports items, along with accompanying apparel.

And just to remind you to be sure and have a few logs ready for the fireplace, the Bruins and Celtics are in training for their Boston winter sports season.

Fear not, however, generally Indian Summer rolls in within a couple of weeks to give that last breath of warm air for awhile.

It was really a poor turnout Tuesday for the state primary election.

Weather was given as a prime reason.

But, basically, weather is a poor excuse for not getting out and casting a ballot.

The candidates, it would appear, really didn't get the voters too excited about the election, thus, possibly the reason for the slim turnout.

Curious question.

How come garden clubs meet all winter, and take the summer off which would seem to be the prime gardening time.

Just joshing of course, for the garden clubs with which we are familiar are composed of hard working, dedicated ladies, performing community services, as well as becoming horticulturally enlightened.

Services At Lawrence Temple

Temple Emanuel of Lawrence, serving the Greater Lawrence area, is now beginning its 51st year of religious services to the Jewish Community.

Temple Emanuel is affiliated with the Union of American Hebrew Congregations and offers services which are orientated to the understanding and the needs and responsibilities of religion in the modern world.

High Holiday services will be conducted this year, as in the past, by its spiritual leader, Rabbi Harry A. Roth, together with Cantor Irving Shuman. The Temple Choir will assist the cantor, with Miss Mildred Moore and Mrs. Joan Maynard at the organ. High Holiday attendance at services is limited to members of the congregation. The Temple president, Jerome Russem, will be participating in the service, as will the president of all the Temple auxiliaries -- Mrs. Sherman Seeche, president of the Sisterhood, George Urdang, president of the Brotherhood, Miss Joyce Poretsky, president of the Temple Youth Group, and Mrs.

Jerome Russem. If there are people who have recently moved into the Greater Lawrence area, they are invited to call the Temple office for information regarding Temple Emanuel and its many services.

In addition to religious services, Temple Emanuel offers a religious education to all school-age children, through the Lawrence Jewish School. Both boys and girls who attend the school's religious program are prepared for Bar or Bat Mitzvah.

Religious schooling continues for all temple-affiliated children, through tenth grade. Ninth grade Pre-Confirmation and tenth grade Confirmation classes are conducted by the Temple Rabbi. These classes meet one afternoon a week. The students of these two classes find additional sources of learning through the various field trips which they take. The members of the Confirmation class, together with other confirmands of Temples in the New England area, travel to New York City for a three-day study session as part of their Confirmation program.

The religious training which is provided for the young people of Temple Emanuel, while more demanding than the one morning session of Sunday School of bygone days, is essential for our young people today if they are to be prepared to be the leaders of tomorrow's Jewish community. The religious school program is one of depth, and therefore provides an excellent basis for future participation in the American Jewish community.

Those interested in obtaining information about membership in Temple Emanuel of the Greater Lawrence area, and or involvement in the Lawrence Jewish School, are invited to call the Temple office, 483 Lowell St., Lawrence. 682-8443.

year. A school committee majority seconded Dr. Seifert's call for the town to immediately establish a land bank for schools, to save town dollars, and to rescue available land for schools, and from development that would necessitate even more schools. Member Daniel Frishman was in favor, but gave the educational part first priority.

A large contingent of Doherty School PTO parents underlined the school housing crisis when they crowded the office to plead for a quick eviction of the administrative offices from the Doherty building to quarters so that Doherty school children receiving remedial reading help can move out of the badly lit corridors where presently they are being tutored, and into the administrative offices, which will be converted for this use. The school committee assured the mothers of their interest, and the superintendent promised an early timetable on the necessary phone and electrical installations. He also pointed out that the decision to save Stowe and move administrative offices there for the time being was very recent, and that the moving would be accomplished as quickly as possible. The mothers' point: better that the adults should be inconvenienced, than children with learning problems be taught under difficult conditions! The response - We'll go as fast as we can. The conclusion? The mothers' pressure probably will be translated into pressure on the telephone company and electrical contractors, and probably will help their cause.

new district. She received 1,522 votes and will face Sen. William X. Wall who was nominated by the Democrats, in the November election.

Rep. Paul W. Cronin of Andover who serves precincts one, five and six in Andover and all of North Andover, was unopposed and received 779 votes in his Andover districts.

Winthrop R. Newman, an Andover resident, seeking nomination for register of deeds on the Republican ballot, received 20 Andover votes. He failed to gain the nomination in Greater Lawrence district.

Gov. Francis W. Sargent was top vote getter on the Republican ticket, polling 1,647 votes.

Andover will have a new representative when the new legislature convenes.

Atty. Edward Grimley of Lawrence unseated veteran legislator John J. Bresnahan of Lawrence in a district which composes wards one, two and six in Lawrence and precinct three in Andover.

Grimley received 165 votes in Andover, while Bresnahan had 189 and Rep. Gerard A. Guilmette, of Lawrence, renominated in the district had 160.

James P. Hurrell, of North Andover, unopposed received 567 votes in Andover and will oppose Rep. Paul Cronin in November in that legislative district.

In the gubernatorial contest, Andover Democrats favored Boston Mayor Kevin White with 755 votes. Senate Pres. Maurice Donahue polled 337 and Francis X. Bellotti had 367. Kenneth O'Donnell was fourth with 175.

Michael Dukakis, endorsed by the Democratic convention received 881 votes locally, easily outdistancing his four opponents here for the nomination.

In the new state senatorial district, which places Andover with Lawrence, Tewksbury and Billerica, incumbent Sen. William X. Wall was favored in Andover, 733 to 689 for Lawrence Alderman John McCarthy. John Galvin from Tewksbury polled 689.

James Bradley of North Andover was heavily favored by Andover voters in his bid for county commissioner nomination, garnering 918 votes, as compared to 308 for Commissioner Edward H. Cahill and 180 for John H. Burke. Cahill won the nomination county-wide, however.

Surprising to many political observers was the large number of blanks on the Republican ballot. Almost 20 percent of the ballots were not completely marked. In some cases, it was felt, there was the possibility of voters failing to turn all the pages on the voting machine.

Four ballots were impounded in the town clerk's office. These were ballots cast by new residents failing to meet the requirements of a year's residence in the state and six months in town.

A court case is pending on the legality of the issue, thus the votes will not be counted until such time as the court rules on the issue.

The Andover Companies processed the ballots at their computer center in Shawsheen.

Bus Firm
Request
Denied

Hudson Buslines was denied permission by the selectmen Monday night to operate a limousine service over town streets.

John Cremens of the utility proposed to offer the service locally as well as in Methuen, Lawrence and other Route 93 communities direct to Logan Airport.

Paul Collins operator of a local taxi and limousine service opposed the plan, stating that his firm now serves Logan airport as a portion of the most profitable part of the business.

Collins said that taking away this business through allowing the Hudson proposal, would put him out of business.

Selectman Sidney P. White said he felt the townspeople now had excellent service here and moved that no change in that service be allowed, thus denying the Hudson request.

It was unanimously approved as was a proposal by Direct Lines Service of Lawrence which had planned to make a similar proposal at the next board meeting.

Babe Ruth died Aug. 16, 1948.

St. Robert's Country Day School Opens

Things have been buzzing at St. Robert's country day school preparing for the opening Sept. 15. All equipment has been assembled and repaired, along with a "new look" for the K2 classroom. Thanks to the following volunteers everything is ship-shape: Eugene Veilleux, Sr. and Jr., Howard McAllister, Harold Keegan, John Roache, Robert McPherson, Donald Fougere, Joe Thiel, Dick Marciano, James Walgreen, Tom Perivolotis. Registration week Sept. 15-17, was combined with an open house for the children and parents between 9 and 11:30 a.m. Children's registration date was determined like this:

KI (nursery children) Sept. 15.
KII (kindergarten children) whose last names begin with letters A - E Sept. 16.
KIII whose last names begin with letters F - Z Sept. 17.
Parents socialized with teachers and other parents while children played with toys, met their classmates and got a feeling of familiarity with classroom atmosphere. Regular classes will begin Sept. 22.

Parents, teachers and children won't be "seeing double" at St. Robert's Country Day School when twin boys James and John Veilleux arrive for KI registration or on Sept. 17 when twin girls Tracy and Kimberly McHugh arrive for their KII registration day.

Alligators Are Smiling

Travellers from Florida report that there seems to be an extra wide grin on the face of the alligator this year.

And well there might be. This is the happiest year the alligators have known for many a moon.

John C. Raftery, Superintendent of Everglades National Park, says, "After many years of frustration, we are happy to report that poaching is on the decline in Everglades National Park as well as throughout the range of the American Alligator."

The decrease in poaching is attributed to the strong conservation laws recently passed to prevent poaching. In September, a New York State law will go into effect banning sale of alligator products. A similar law went into effect in New York City July 1. In June an amendment to the federal Endangered Species Act became effective, preventing interstate shipment of alligator hides.

Mr. Raftery says, "The population of alligators seems to be holding its own and, of course, will increase. There has not been a hatching season since the decline of poaching; however, the adult alligators are appearing frequently in many places where they had previously been poached. Therefore, we are quite sure that the poaching is at a very low ebb."

"The status of the American Alligator is the best it has been in many, many years. Unless there are some changes in laws, this status will continue to improve."

"Throughout the range of the American Alligator, the destruction of habitat is cutting down on the population; however, my statements apply to the areas where it is generally in good condition. We do have many areas which will be protected, such as Everglades National Park, the Conservation areas of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District, and other fine alligator habitat areas where the alligator will always be found as long as the markets for their hides are not available."

C. Russell Mason, Executive Director of the Florida Audubon Society, adds, "All along, many of us have felt that if we could destroy the market, we could stop poaching. We believe that poaching has already decreased. Most of the poachers were known by the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. However, there was difficulty in getting convictions."

"I am sure that the Game and Fish Commission will get the word to the poachers about the lost markets. As a result, there will be an increase in the importation of the Caiman (a cousin of the alligator). Martin Northrup, our conservation specialist, observed many Caiman hides from Venezuela in the warehouse of a Miami importer."

Since 1961, it has been illegal to kill alligators in Florida, but penalties were light. New Florida laws permit prison sentences of up to five years. And the laws against transport and sale of alligator products have taken away the market and incentive for poaching.

Happily, it looks as if survival is in sight for the endangered alligator.

Recreation Meeting Tonight

A meeting to discuss future development of recreational opportunities for the town is scheduled for tonight at Andover High school at 8 p.m., at which time, the townspeople will have an opportunity to present their desires to a planning consultant.

Tonight's meeting has taken on a more comprehensive aspect of the town's desires for recreational facilities.

Originally scheduled to consider development of the Andover Recreation Park, it is now intended to encompass development of the Andover Playstead.

The Playstead will be part of the development of the William A. Doherty school addition. The facilities are expected to be developed for both school and town use.

Finance Committee Chairman Albert J. Greenberg, is hopeful a good turnout of residents will be at the meeting tonight to meet with Stewart Allen, the planning consultant.

Allen is a professional recreational planner. He has been retained by the town to develop plans for recreational areas. He has asked that the townspeople point out some of the things they wish in the years ahead.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin will conduct the meeting.

Many organizations have been contacted and are expected to attend and present their views at tonight's meeting.

FinCom Chairman Greenberg is hopeful that a good representation of townspeople will be there in order to discuss all phases of proposed development fully, not only with facilities but with the overall recreation program.

Bowen Is Interviewed In Lowell

Former Town Manager Richard J. Bowen, was to be interviewed for the vacant post of city manager of Lowell this week.

There were 109 applications for the vacancy, but the nine-member city council, expected to interview only three or four.

Bowen was scheduled to meet with the council Monday night.

Election of a new manager could come anytime after Wednesday of this week, the deadline for filing applications.

It was reported that Bowen was requested to appear before the council and was not an active candidate. A councillor felt that the former administrator here had qualifications which the council should consider.

Bowen is presently employed in the planning division of the commission to reorganize state government.

Former City Manager James Sullivan of Cambridge is the only other candidate to have been interviewed as of Monday.

Bowen, after leaving the Andover managerial post, served from April, 1969 to February, 1970, as city manager in Portsmouth, N.H.

Henry Hudson discovered the Hudson river, Sept. 12, 1609.
